JEWS GREET NEW YEAR WITH SOLEMN CEREMONY

ROSH HASHONA IS OBSERVED

Carry Out Custom of Blowing Ram's Horn
in Synagogues.

Rosh Hashona, the Jewish New Year, was ushered in at 6 o'clock last evening in the First Hebrew Synagogue and the Beth Jacob Temple, with impressive services, which were carried out with the devotion and spirit characteristic of the ancient Hebrews. The ancient custom of blowing the ram's horn, known as the "shofar," was carried out during the services.

The services at the First Hebrew Synagogue were very impressive, and the musical program which was rendered, added to the solemnity of the occasion. Prominent Jews in this city assembled in this sacred precinct to devote several hours to religious thought and to clothe themselves in a holy attire. There is a mixture of orthodox and reformed Jews, who worship there, and the ceremony is vastly unlike services at the Beth Jacob or Orthodox Synagogue, where religious rites were carried out in essentially the same manner as it is in Russia, and all the customs of their forefathers were followed out to the letter. The tallis was worn and the men occupied seats on the ground floor, while the women sat upstairs in the balcony.

SERVICES TOMORROW.

Tomorrow morning there will be a repetition of today's ceremonies and the services will commence at 9 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Farber conducted the services today and will preside over them tomorrow. He was assisted by Rev. S. B. R. Goldberg as cantor. The Rev. Ephraim Brodsky, of New York, preached the New Year's sermon.

In the First Hebrew Congregation on Castro street, where the Rev. Dr. M. Friedlander presided, the temple was crowded to the doors by the leading Jews of this city. An elaborate musical program added to the impressiveness of the occasion, which was marked by simplicity of ceremony.

FOLLOW TRADITION.

On New Year's day, according to ancient belief, the sons of Abraham passed in long ranks before the throne of their creator. Like sheep before the shepherd he pointed out those who should be gathered to Abraham's bosom before another New Year's day should mark another cycle of moons. That belief still enters into the religious ceremony of today and tomorrow.

Orthodox Jews observe two days but the more reform celebrate but one day. Racial ties which have designated the Jews of America, Russia, Germany, England, France, Spain and Jerusalem is still intact, and every Jew in the land has prepared for the New Year's feast of prayer and meditation. Next to Tom Kipper (Attonement Day), Rosh Hashona is the most holy day in the Jewish calendar and is considered by many of the Jewish reformers to be the most important feast of Judaism, though suffering from neglect.

2 INSANE OVER BIG S. F. FIRE

Woman and Daughter Are Victims of Terror.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—The San Francisco catastrophe of last year was recalled last night in the commitment to the detention hospital of a mother and daughter, two victims who lost their all. The woman, Mrs. Tillie Levenberg, 68 years old, and Miss Julia Levenberg, 18 years old, were taken to the hospital from the home of George Connor, 1644 Clifton avenue, a stepson of Mrs. Levenberg. They arrived in Chicago a month ago, going to Connor's home.

"My stepmother and stepfather were greatly affected by their experience in the San Francisco disaster," said Connor. "It was not so much the loss of their valuables as the scenes of death and misery they witnessed."

According to Connor, another daughter, Mabel, is on her way to Chicago and on her arrival she will take her mother and sister in custody and take them to San Jose, Cal.

Root Gains 12 Pounds Under Muldoon's Care

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Secretary of State Elihu Root, who has been a patient at William Muldoon's institute at White Plains, left there last night. The secretary gained twelve pounds while in the institution and he told his friends that he felt like a new man.

NELSON READY TO MEET WINNER OF TODAY'S CONTEST

Five Thousand Fake Tickets Were Sold by Scalpers for the Gallery---Crowd Slow in Gathering.

AT THE RINGSIDE, S. F., Sept. 9.—Several hundred people are on the hill as if the gate receipts will reach the expected $50,000 mark.

Billy Nolan and Battling Nelson enter the arena and Nolan announces that the Battler will be ready to box Jimmy Britt at any time the Native Son desires. He also says that he will back the Battler with any size side bet that the Brits desire.

CONTEST DELAYED.

The contest was scheduled for 2:30 o'clock, but Manager Gleason announces that the contest will not start until 3 o'clock in order to allow the crowd to become seated.

NATIVES DAZZLE SAN JOSE WITH GLORIOUS PAGEANT

Celebration of Admission Day Reaches Climax With Monster Parade and Ball.

SAN JOSE, September 8.—The climax of the three days' celebration of Admission Day held in this city under the auspices of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West came this morning with monstrous pageant, which wound its way through the city's festooned streets amid the cheering of thousands of spectators, who paid homage to the golden bear. Every portion of the State found its representation in the parade, numbering over 6000 people, most of whom were costumed in picturesque fashion.

CONTINUOUS FANFARE.

Twenty bands, assisted by almost as many life and drum corps, served to maintain a continuous fanfare of music from early in the morning until the parade was over. Each parlor carried its own banner and the members marched to the strains of martial music. The night was the most impressive the Garden City has ever witnessed.

The parade was headed by Chief of Police.

The various parades of Native Daughters marched on foot, costumed in many colors, some in yellow gowns with black gloves, picture hats and parasols, while others clad in royal purple were escorted by Native Sons in snow white garments. The parade made a perfect sea of color and the enthusiasm of the spectators knew no bounds, each parlor receiving an ovation as it passed the reviewing stand at the corner of Third and Santa Clara streets.

This afternoon literary exercises were held in auditorium rink. An address of welcome will be made by Fred J. Thomas, of San Jose, and M. T. Dooling, president of the order will respond. The oration of the day was delivered by Fletcher C. Outler. There were a series of songs and recitations, and music from the Fifth Regiment band. The day will close with a grand ball at the rink.

Despite the fact that every element has been attracted here by the celebration, the police have made no arrests and no disorder has occurred. The celebration, according to the officers of the order, has been a success.

SAN GABRIEL IS ASHORE NORTH OF POINT REYES

Crew of Fifteen Men Are Safe, but the Vessel Will Be a Total Loss.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9.—The steamer San Gabriel, which sailed from San Pedro the day before yesterday for Umpqua in ballast, ran ashore one mile north of Point Reyes this morning during a heavy fog. It is believed that the vessel will be a total loss. The San Gabriel carries a crew of 15 men. The San Gabriel is in command of Captain Green, who preceded Captain Doran of the ill-fated Columbia.

CREW IS SAFE.

Word has been received by the Weather Bureau, stating that a steam schooner is standing by the stranded vessel. A tug has left here for the scene of the wreck. The Point Reyes life saving crew has reached the San Gabriel and it is stated there is no danger of loss of life.

WOODEN STEAMER.

The San Gabriel is a wooden screw steamer of 454 tons, built in 1903 by the United Engineering Works of San Francisco. Her owners are the Kerkhof-Cumner Mill & Lumber Company, and her dimensions are: length 158 feet, breadth 33 feet, 6 inches, depth 11 feet.

THIEF CAUGHT IN ACT OF ROBBING SLEEPER

Policeman Watches Robber Take Money From Pockets of Man Slumbering on Beer Keg.

(SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9.—Fred Brickley, who lives in the vicinity of the city hall, saw no better way of celebrating Admission Day than by taking a morning nap on an up-ended beer barrel at Eighth and Market streets. As he had but 60 cents in his pocket this seemed to be as much excitement as he could command for the holiday.

Julius M. Baul was even worse off. He hadn't a cent in his pocket and was looking for some easy money. Observing Brickley asleep, he went through his pockets and gathered in the sixty cents.

Policeman Herlihy happened along Market street about this time. He observed Brickley on the barrel and stopped to see what the men were doing. Not wishing to attract attention he too fell asleep but kept one eye open and saw Baul take the money from Brickley's pocket.

The result of the episode is that Baul is spending the day in the city jail on a charge of grand larceny, while Brickley, whose 60 cents is being held as evidence, went back to finish his nap secure in the knowledge that he no longer stood in the danger of pickpockets.

WANTS TO FIGHT ROOT WITH OR WITHOUT GLOVES

Oaklander Challenges Secretary, Through Muldoon, to Walking, Riding, Wrestling or Boxing Match.

When Muldoon, the "perfect man," one-time trainer of prizefighters and now trainer of rich men "off their feed," said he would back Secretary Root, who has been training under Muldoon, against any man his age in a boxing, wrestling, horseback riding or a long distance walking match, he may not have seriously contemplated entering the secretary in any of these contests, but he has been taken seriously by W. O. Conlin, 854 Washington street, this city. Conlin has sent the following challenge to Root, through Muldoon:

"I notice in the papers a challenge from you offering to back Secretary Root either in boxing, wrestling or walking against any man of his age. Now, Mr. Muldoon, I will accept your challenge. While I am a much older man than Secretary Root I can walk him to death and would be pleased to meet him with or without gloves. Yours very truly,

W. O. CONLIN.

"Born April 29, 1849, in Sullivan county, New York. I will meet the secretary or any other Root you may name."

BURGLAR LOOTS STORE WHILE WATCHMAN SLEEPS

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—Bold burglars broke into the cigar store of E. F. Briggs at 749 Market street some time during the night. They gained entrance by sawing their way through the floor from an adjoining vacant lot. They secured a large sum in nickels. By some means the burglars overlooked the slot machines, the keys to which were in the till they robbed. They thus failed to secure $15.80 which was in the machines. There was a watchman asleep in the rear of the premises, but his slumbers were unbroken by the burglar's work.

UNKNOWN ASSAILANT'S VICTIM DIES OF BLOW

Man Found With Fractured Skull Passes Away Without Being Able to Tell Who Injured Him.

(SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9.—Albert Gunderson, alias Albert Miller, who was picked up at Filbert and Montgomery streets last night with a fractured skull, died this morning at the Central Emergency hospital. No evidence has been secured by the police as to the manner in which he received his injury but he appeared to have been struck a heavy blow in the head with a blunt instrument.

Miller was a cement worker whose address is given as 211 Stewart street, but no trace of such a person can be found at that number. Detectives Braig and Taylor have been investigating the case, but so far have secured no clue.

Fred McDonald, the inspector for the United Railroad, who received a fractured skull in trying to assist Police-man Higgins in the arrest of two working-men, is thought to be dying at the St. Francis hospital.

Chinese Sent to Study Constitutional Laws

PEKING, Sept. 9.—The throne-to-day appointed Tashou, Wang Tai and Ting She Hmel to be imperial commissioners with instructions to separately visit Japan, Great Britain and Germany for the purpose of examining and reporting on the constitutional systems of those countries.

Bishop Wilberforce Dies on Isle of Wight

LONDON, Sept. 9.—The Bishop of Chester, the Right Rev. Ernest Roland Wilberforce, D. D., died today at Barmbridge, Isle of Wight. He was born in 1840 and was a son of the late Right Rev. Samuel Wilberforce, Bishop of Winchester.

SHORT FRUIT CROP HURTS

Makers of Jars and Sugar Dealers Will be Heavy Losers.

DENVER, Sept. 9.—Not only is the canning business in Colorado seriously injured by the decrease in the fruit crop this year, but the loss extends to the sugar industry, and the fruit jar companies, both of which suffer in consequence of the shortage. While the farmer is curtailed in the earnings of a season, the fruit jar company loses the sale of thousands of jars which are manufactured long in advance of even the blossoming of the fruit trees and the fact that fruit as far as the Missouri river is scarce means that the sugar men will have difficulty in marketing even away from Colorado the vast stock of sugar laid in for the preserving season. The fruit jar companies begin to receive orders for jars and cans from December 15 to March 15, deliveries to be made to dealers from May to July.

JARS NOT ACCEPTED.
The dealers give their orders early, but when the crop is a failure as so happens this year the supply left from the year before is usually ample and the new jars are not accepted.

It is estimated that from 75 to 80 per cent of the orders will not be required. This loss up to a loss of between $35,000 and $40,000.

Colorado consumes only a small percent of the sugar product, something like 25 per cent being the estimate. This amounts to 600,000 bags and the remainder is shipped to the fruit packers as far east as the Missouri river. They will not need it this year, nor will the canners north and south. Colorado will leave untouched $22,000 worth of the saccharine product. The fruit grower can, by advancing his prices, make up some of his loss, but the jar manufacturer, the sugar man and the canner must suffer. Canned goods next winter will cost one-fifth more than in previous years. A total loss, suffered by factories and sugar companies, amounts approximately to $40,000.

TROUBLES BOW MARLBOROUGH

Duchess Crushed by Grief Finds Only Consolation With Duke's Sons.

DEAUVILLE, France, Sept. 9.—The state of health of the duchess of Marlborough is far from satisfactory. She is living quietly at Villa Maeda near here. Her late troubles which led to her separation from the duke, have so affected her that she is unable to sleep well and eats very little.

Her only comfort is in her two boys, and even with regard to them she is not free from anxiety, for the duke is constantly writing to her requesting that she be sent back to him in England. In these requests he is backed by the influence of his sister, Lady Sarah Wilson.

ON MOTHER'S SIDE.
The duchess has a strong hold, however, on the affections of her sons. In fact, the Marquis of Blandford, her eldest child, and consequently heir to the greater title, is entirely on his mother's side. He shows a steadfastness or a stubbornness in which he takes after the Vanderbilt side of the house.

The duchess has almost altogether given up going to London. Although she retained until she first came to Deauville, she now spends most of the day indoors, reading her books, and does not sleep. With a large jug of milk at her bedside, a patent reading lamp and a pile of the newest books, she often reads until 2 o'clock in the morning. The reason is that she has very much fallen off in her looks. She is extremely delicate and nervous.

STUDIES ESPERANTO.
For something to occupy her time she has lately taken up the study of Esperanto, the artificial universal language. Little Lord Ivor, the other son, is keenly interested with his mother in this pursuit, and both are becoming quite proficient in it.

The duchess is not decided about her plans for the winter, but it is probable that she will return to Sunderland house for a part of the autumn. She will then see to the finishing of the magnificent bedroom in her London mansion, which she has been sent to Paris to be pressed and framed ready to be fitted into their places.

PROMISE TO MARRY BINDS MARRIED MAN

An engagement made by a married person to wed another, in the event of death bringing freedom to do so, is valid ground for breach of promise proceedings if not kept. This was the ruling of Lord Coleidge recently, and it seems a little law upon a point never before ruled upon.

The action, which came up at the Lincoln Assizes, was brought by Miss Wilson to recover from Sidney B. Carnley, a solicitor, damages for breach of promise. He had promised to marry her while the defendant's wife was still living.

On the third day of the trial the jury found for the plaintiff and awarded $100 damages in respect of the breach.

Hugo Young (for Mr. Carnley), submitted that the plaintiff could not recover damages against a married man, as it was contrary to public policy that a contract should be entered into for marriage upon a wife's death. The tendency of such a promise might be to lead even to murder.

Lord Coleidge, in delivering judgment, said he was asked to set a precedent. Whatever his personal opinion might be in regard to this form of action, he shrank from holding that such a contract was binding, as being against public policy. If he was wrong, therefore, give judgment for the plaintiff with costs.

The court even went so far as to decide adversely in a counter-claim for damages for libel, which Carnley had been awarded one farthing damages and sought to have the costs imposed upon the woman. The judge agreed that the verdict implied contempt for the cause, and he exercised his discretion in keeping with it.

MIGHT BE WORSE.

A visiting gentleman had submitted for some time to the attentions of the three-year-old son of his hostess, but at last grew a little tired of having his whiskers pulled and his nose trodden upon.

"Madam," said he, "there is one thing about your charming little boy which especially pleases me."

"And what is that?" asked the smiling mother.

"That he isn't a twin," Rochester said.

FABLED FORTY LIKE SHADOWS

Search for Followers of Dr. Gluck in Spooky Old House Unavailing.

CHICAGO—Forty searchers after the perfect life—men and women—have disappeared from Chicago.

The elusive forty are the followers of Dr. Gluck, 1171 Milwaukee avenue. He never has permitted anybody connected with the vulgar outside world to see them. They are the members of the "colony" for which the doctor is supposed to be purchasing great quantities of prunes, olive oil, and other vegetable products in New York.

And that is not all. There are those living in the vicinity of the Gluck colony—persons who are living common vulgar lives which the doctor wishes to improve—who declare that the forty followers never existed except in the imaginative brain of Dr. Gluck. They even insist that the building which is supposed to house the colony and the seekers after perfect lives never housed other than Dr. Gluck and his wife.

ALL IS DREARY.
A visit to the "colony" home yesterday disclosed a dreary looking three-story building, not the sort that one would expect to be conducive to higher and more perfect thoughts and the rearing of perfect children. The building was closed and tightly locked with a big padlock. The curtains were drawn and no living thing appeared about the place all day. There is another Gluck establishment, however—a bathhouse—at 291 Carpenter street, and this place was inhabited. There was one attendant there.

"There are Dr. Gluck's forty faithful followers," he was asked.

"Ain't they up at the house?" he asked with a grin. "Well, then, I can't tell."

"Has he any followers at all?"

"H'm, I don't know," was the reply, with an expressive shrug of the shoulder.

Another man who is familiar with Dr. Gluck's "colony" was found, however, who threw an entirely new light upon the original theories and sensational beliefs of the doctor.

WIFE EVEN DOUBTS.
"Dr. Gluck owns that building that is said to hold his colony, but his only follower is his wife," said this man, "and I don't believe that she believes in his teachings about perfect children—you know, they have none, either perfect or imperfect."

"The trip to New York in search of supplies is the doctor's little vacation. As a matter of fact, he is down there attending the wedding of a sister. I don't believe that he is making an effort to buy prunes or oil of any kind, unless he gets a pound or so for himself and his wife."

The doctor is a picturesque figure, with undeniably original ideas. For many months he has been endeavoring to convert young men and women to his way of thinking. If he could get but one young man and one young woman to live as he said for a year, he declares they could rear a perfect race.

SOCIALISTS TOO CONSERVATIVE.
It was nearly five years ago that he quit the socialist party because the "socialists were too conservative." Before leaving the party, however, he did his best to save it from itself. He pointed out that if the country was to be saved it was necessary to rear perfect children, and, with this end in view, he recommended that certain laws be passed which would surround the marriage ties with such safeguards as he thought proper under the circumstances. But the socialists were not nearly advanced enough to "see" the doctor's theory and they neglected this opportunity to save the nation and its babies.

OFF IN THE DEFINITION.

Two men were discussing the trouble in India, and each had a deal to say about his notion of Hindu character.

"They're such a bellicose set of people," said one.

"Indeed," exclaimed the other in surprise, "I was always under the impression that they were very spare men."

Mayr Spends Day Signing Park Bonds

Mayor Frank Mott, with his coat off and sleeves rolled up, has been celebrating a large part of today by signing park bonds. The Mayor did not permit even the big circus parade to drag him from his task.

"I was born in San Francisco and am a loyal Native Son," said the Mayor, "but these park bonds have got to be signed, and this is the first opportunity I have had to do it. It's a patriotic duty I owe the municipality and comes first of anything, as it must be done. So I'm not permitted to mingle with the holiday throng today to any extent."

INSTALLMENTS ALL AROUND.

Patent (Gloomily)—I don't seem to be gaining very fast, doctor.

Doctor (cheerfully)—You can't expect to get well at one jump. You will have to regain your health gradually day by day—sort of on the installment plan, as it were.

Patient (brightening up)—Well, doctor, if this thing keeps on much longer I'm afraid that you will have to collect your bill in the same way.—Tribune.

CAUSES AND NATURE OF THE OCEAN WAVES

The nature and effect of sea waves have been a subject of study by engineers engaged in the construction of work along the coasts. Sea waves result from wind pressure. The minimum wind velocity that can generate them is said to be two feet a second, and the waves thus produced measure three-fourths of an inch from crest to crest.

A violent gale is said to have produced a wave 250 feet from crest to crest. The size of a wave is dependent upon the velocity of the wind and the "fetch" or distance along which propagation is continued, while the duration of the wind, the water depth and shore conformation are to be considered in a study of the effect waves may have upon the shore. Sometimes there are two systems of waves in motion at the same time, one superimposed upon another, or they may travel in different directions. When two systems traveling in different directions meet they produce the large occasional waves. Deep water waves are usually from 100 to 200 feet long and last from six to eight seconds. It is rare, according to students of waves, that a length of 500 feet is exceeded.

One can understand from the figures given by the dynamometer, which measures the force of waves, why it is that powerfully built ships are soon pounded to pieces when they become fast on a rock. Half the energy of a wave is kinetic, while the other half is potential. The kinetic energy is due to the revolution of the water particles, while the potential energy is due to the elevation of the center of gravity of the mass of water comprising the crest above the center

GRABS ROUT THEIR CAPTORS

Barefoot Nipped by 500 Crustaceans They Leap Overboard.

ATLANTIC CITY.—Joyously sailing for the inlet here, homeward bound after a crabbing expedition to the upper bays that had netted them 500 succulent specimens of the deep, George Vickers, C. Nolte, and Frank and Rudolph Hawkes were all but hauled the applause of their friends at their skill as fishermen. The men were in a naphtha launch, had shed their shoes for greater comfort, while the half-thousand crabs, big fellows, were packed away in every receptacle aboard—barrels, tin pails and baskets.

CRABS RELEASED.
As the launch sailed across the mouth of the inlet, a great roller threw the craft overboard several barrels, and in a moment the decks were covered with giant crabs. They seized upon the bare feet of the fishermen, climbed up their thin trousers, and nipped them in dozens of tender places. The men yelled in fright and pain. They seized oars and began a fight upon their late captives. The crabs were too many and too lively for them. The victory was theirs, and hundreds of persons on shore were attracted by the cries of the unfortunate men, by the power of the crabs, and by the sight of the men being pulled down, at the distance, the reason could not be understood.

OVER HE GOES.
Nolte was the first to acknowledge defeat. Overboard he plunged. The others followed. The quartet made for shore, and being good swimmers, were soon safe from rowing and the crabs, in the shallow waters of the meadows. Meanwhile a rescue party had set out, and was on the point of starting the cause of the flight into the sea, the men made for the abandoned boat. Gingly did not return to the boat, but he was taken from the water, a precaution they had always taken by experienced fishermen.

JOAQUIN MILLER ENTOMBS HIS ONCE FAITHFUL HORSE

While Remembering Equine Friend He Talks of the Time When He Himself Shall Depart.

Joaquin Miller, poet, some of whose ravest verses have been inspired by the natural loveliness of Oakland, is in grief over the loss of an equine friend, the burial of which took place yesterday.

In connection with an artistic and poetic temperament, Miller has a feeling of tenderness and love for all that is beautiful, docile and gentle, whether the beauty be in nature and the docility be found in the human or the lower species of the animal creation.

This sentiment was appealed to when the poet found that his horse, which was beloved by him, had been painfully injured a few days ago by a fall.

The animal suffered excruciating pain, which superinduced insanity and dropped dead.

PALL OF FLOWERS.

At the interment, the poet placed above the departed steed, a pall of flowers as expressive of the sweetness of the friendship which had existed between the man and the animal.

In saddened voice the poet spoke of his dead animal as follows:

"He was my personal friend and companion, and as fine a gentleman as one would wish to meet."

The burial took place on the top of the mountain on a part of the grounds forming what is known as Oakland Heights, a name given to his home place by the poet, and from which a view may be obtained of the most attractive spot around the bay.

A few personal friends of the poet gathered at the burial.

WILL NOT DIE.

On the same mountain top Miller has built a structure of stone on which it is his purpose to be interred when the physical change which most people call death takes place with regard to himself.

He, however, does not characterize that change as death. He believes that he shall not die.

"I shall never die," said Mr. Miller to a representative of THE TRIBUNE. "The grasses in my door yard do not die. In them I trace eternal life. The fear of death I do not know. That thought I do not know."

"When I came here I built a pile of stones and had wood hauled up, for I was not strong and thought to pass away as I am."

"But after that they built crematories in the hills and I am going to pass away in that manner, for I abhorred the stillness of the tomb, and wanted to be out and about with the flowers and the grasses and so I welcomed the idea and the fact of the crematories of San Francisco and Oakland alike."

"But the truth is, I built the first crematory west of the Rocky Mountains, as anyone can see who climbs the hills of my heights, where I shall be cremated. I shall be buried where nature wills."

MAD CANADIANS MOB JAPANESE

Fifty Store Fronts are Stoned and Two Orientals are Wounded.

MONTREAL, Sept. 9.—The following telegram has been received by Consul General Nossie at Ottawa from Aikuro Ishii, director of commerce and trade, department of Foreign Affairs of Japan, who is at present in British Columbia studying the anti-Japanese movement in that province:

"Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 8.—Having arrived at Vancouver at 1 p. m. on September 7, I found that during the early part of the evening there was held a demonstration of the anti-Japanese and Japanese League, and about 9 p. m. a number of rowdies, about 50 or 60, marched into the section of the city where stores kept by the Japanese and Chinese are located, and threw stones, breaking considerable glass."

"Following this attack came another one, this time the number being increased to about 500, and the fronts of several of the stores were broken. So far as I can ascertain only one Japanese was wounded. The police force did their best, but there is hardly any hope of relief in that direction."

"Consul Morikawa is at the seat of the disturbance trying to impress upon the city police to extend their protection over the Japanese residents, and at the same time to suppress the utmost excitement of the Japanese that there may be no further disturbances."

FOURTH ATTACK.

Mr. Ishii's hope was unfortunately not fulfilled, as late last night the Consul wired the following telegram from Consul Morikawa:

"Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 8.—In consequence of the message sent by Mr. Ishii, I have to report that a fourth attack was made by the rowdies about midnight on the Japanese quarters. Twice again they tried to attack the Japanese stores, but on account of the vigilance of the Japanese and the city police, and also the late hour of the night, their number gradually decreased, and by 3 o'clock Sunday morning the rowdies scattered and tranquility was restored by dawn."

THE DAMAGE.

"The Japanese stores damaged are as follows: 13; hotels, 9; candy and confectionery shops, 5; bath houses, 2; barber shops, 5; shoemakers, 2; banking office, 1; newspaper office, 1; employment office, 4; restaurant, 1; rice mill, 1; butcher's shop, 1; laundry, 2; with a total of 50 stores. Of these fifty stores all the windows and doors were smashed. Two Japanese were wounded."

Consul General Moss will lay all the facts before Mr. Laurier, premier of Canada.

WHO HE IS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Aikuro Ishii, the director of the commercial bureau of the Japanese Foreign Office, who was involved in the anti-Japanese riots at Vancouver last Saturday night, came to this country to investigate and demonstrate in San Francisco, report on the result anti-Japanese. While this was given out as the specific object of his visit, it is generally understood that his mission was to make a thorough study of the whole Japanese question in this country, and to ascertain the cause and extent of whatever prejudice may exist against the Japanese.

He spent some time in San Francisco and after traveling through the country went to British Columbia, where the conditions arising from the recent inflow of Japanese and Hindus into the Northwest has caused a serious disturbance of labor conditions.

"EAST LYNNE" FOR THE WEEK AT MACDONOUGH

"East Lynne" will be the bill tonight at the Macdonough Theater. The run began this afternoon and will be given each night this week by the Walter Sanford players.

This is the drama that never grows old, the story being of vital interest to all theater goers. The well known tale of the sin committed in a moment of anger to be repented by a lifetime's remorse, is known by all. This will be an entirely new version, containing several funny comedy scenes.

The book has been read by nearly every one young and old. Mrs. Laura Weston will appear as "Lady Isabel," W. H. Lonsdale as "Sir Francis," F. A. Allsworth as "Archibald," and the other members of the company will be seen to advantage. "East Lynne" will be given for one week only. Prices are to be popular—15, 25 and 50 cents. Seats can be secured for any night of the week on either of the first two nights.

PLAN FOR NEW CLIFF HOUSE

Structure to be of Low, Rambling Type and Soon Under Way.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9.—The past and the future met face to face out at the ocean beach yesterday.

While the fishermen were playing two streams of water on the still smoldering ruins of Cliff House No. 3, John Tait was laying out the plans for Cliff House No. 4.

Where Cliff House No. 3 a dead office-holder, and were Cliff House No. 4 his successor in office, there might be a chance for some remark about unseemly haste. But buildings and property are things of money and San Franciscans are getting into the habit of doing things in a hurry.

And so it was that John Tait was talking of Ionic columns and apocryphal legends, while the whole of the Cliff House was being rebuilt, a feasible project in phrases such as "Poor old Cliff," and "I can scarcely recall it."

"READY TO REBUILD," SAYS TAIT.

"We are ready," said Tait, in the manner of a man sure of his ground, to erect a new and better Cliff House on the site of the old structure. All that we need is a satisfactory lease of the land—a lease that will justify the investment. I am content that satisfactory arrangements can be made with the representatives of the estate, although I have heard nothing definite concerning the plans of the Sutorio people."

The Cliff House Company feels its loss, but it is using only one hand to wipe away the tears. The other hand is busy with the problem of tomorrow.

Any idea of what the new Cliff House would be like, he said, "is only half formed, but it may be written down that the building I have in mind will not in the least resemble the building that has just been destroyed. On the contrary, it will be more nearly like the Cliff House of many years ago—the one that was burned in 1894. But even that comparison should be taken with reserve, for I mean to apply only to this extent: That Cliff House No. 4 will hug the ground as did Cliff House No. 3, instead of towering up square and white as did Cliff House No. 3."

Beyond this initial similarity, the new structure will be locally original in design.

MAY BUILD NEAR WATER.

"I would have the new building of only two stories in height, with the hotel feature eliminated. The lower floor would rest on the big flat rock that is near the water, and the upper floor would be level with the roadway leading down from Sutorio Heights."

When near the water and the city would let it follow along the natural outline of the rocks. This, I think, would add greatly to the beauty of the building.

The upper story would be set back, forming a terrace on the roof of the lower story, and the fronts of both stories would be set around with Ionic columns.

"Now," concluded Tait, "this is as far as I have figured out the proposed new Cliff House."

"HOW DOES IT LOOK?"

"It doubtless looked very real to the practical mind's eye of John Tait, but the thousands of men and women who hurried out to the beach yesterday were thinking of the Cliff House that was gone. They were there to grieve over something they had known and loved, and they were not bothered with any concern of the future."

And there was real cause for all of this, for the ruins of the long familiar building form a saddening sight. A wreck of charred timbers and twisted iron is all that remains of the once imposing hotel building.

Relic hunters and amateur photographers were always in the front line of the sightseers, who crowded the steep slope from the great highway to look down upon the ugly remnant of what had once been so pleasing to the eye. But there was little material for the practice of the picture-maker's art, and the relic hunters were turned back by mounted police.

GOOD DRINKS FOR SULTRY WEATHER

Warm weather naturally leads to thirst; let the latter be satisfied by pure, wholesome drinks. Home-made lemonade is one of the very best. Barley water is excellent; so also are orangeade, grape juice, and the juices of other fruits, diluted with water and slightly sweetened.

Drinks are absolutely safe. Free drinking of pure water is helpful in keeping the system in good running order. Children should be encouraged to drink freely; preferably, however, between meals. A drink is also to be taken during the morning and the last thing at night.

DIAMOND RING STOLEN DURING FAMILY ABSENCE

While Mrs. Owen Breslin and family were absent from their home at 1271 Jackson street yesterday morning a diamond ring of one and one-half carats, inclosed in wire netting, was stolen. The jewel was valued at $100.

Mrs. Breslin has asked the aid of the police to recover her ring. She is not certain whether a thief got into the house while the family was absent or was in the house when the family left. The servants deny knowledge of the theft.

BAD CHECKS CAUSE ARREST

Prisoner Late From East Held by Police—Alameda Youth Detained.

With his name on the police "small book," Samuel T. Wilson, who has been employed as a subscription canvasser in this city for a San Francisco morning newspaper, is held in the city prison awaiting further investigation of alleged bogus check passing.

Wilson was arrested yesterday and at police headquarters is said by Chief Wilson to have confessed to at least one charge.

No complaint has been entered on the prison register against Wilson, however, and the extent of his confessed check-passing is apparently known only to himself and Detectives Hodgkins and Green, who are working on the case for further evidence.

ON CANADA BANK.

Among those who admit having recently had bogus checks passed on them is Don Morris, clothier, at 1057 Washington street. He is said to have taken a $46 check on August 31, drawn on the Canada Bank of Commerce at San Francisco, in honor of A. Hammond, and signed by D. Thornton. The check was presented in payment for clothing by a man who he described as 5 feet 10 inches tall, slender, fair complexion, sallow and smooth shaven.

The description does not fit S. T. Wilson. However, the man who passed the check at Morris' store is supposed to be one of a trio who on the same day victimized other clothing merchants.

THE SCHEME.

To these other merchants, including C. J. Heesman, M. J. Keller Company and Charles Smith & Co., there were tendered checks on the Central Trust Company of San Francisco, all for the amount of $87.50, all in favor of Clarence Reed, and against the firm of Thompson-Starratt, the name of which was stamped on the backs. In making the purchases the men played the part of hard-to-please customers and ordered the goods sent to the same address on Fifth avenue. Then the man who posed as Reed would give the check.

The check made out on the Canada Bank of Commerce of San Francisco, given in payment for a suit of clothes and an overcoat, was paid over by a single man, who carried away the garments, after receiving a few dollars in change.

By adding themselves of the paper on Saturday, the men had two days in which to get away, as Monday, a holiday, following Sunday, made it impossible to discover where the checks were not good until Tuesday.

The police do not seem to think that S. T. Wilson actively participated with this gang of check-passers and at present, Chief Wilson is unable to throw further light on Wilson's alleged unlawful actions.

Wilson is said to have not long ago come here from the East and engaged as a newspaper subscription canvasser.

YOUTH IN CUSTODY.

James Campbell, a youth aged 16 years, is also in police custody for like trouble. His name is thus far only on the police "small book," though Chief Wilson says that Campbell has confessed. As in the case of S. T. Wilson, the chief has not received from his detectives the details of the confession.

Young Campbell's mother resides in Alameda. She yesterday reported to the police department here that her son had disappeared from home and she was worried about him. At that time the lad was in a prison cell.

In San Francisco

INJURED BY AN AUTO.

Miss Alice Ferguson, a resident of Seventh and Harrison streets, an occupant of an automobile driven by F. J. Wiseman which was crashed yesterday afternoon on the south drive in Golden Gate Park, was seriously injured by being thrown under the machine. Wiseman escaped unhurt.

SOMNAMBULIST INJURED.

William Doherty of 1352 Lyon street went to sleep yesterday morning in a barn at 2545 Post street and shortly afterward arose in a somnambulist state and walked out, dropping a distance of fifteen feet, to find when awakened by the shock that three of his ribs had been broken.

TOOK AN OVERDOSE.

Faye Corbett, a visiting Sacramentan, wound up a prolonged spree yesterday by taking an overdose of chloral in order to induce sleep and sober up. His life was saved by timely treatment at the emergency hospital.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

After quarreling with her husband over a petty subject, Mrs. O. Hill of 1353 Hayes street attempted to commit suicide yesterday afternoon by gashing her left wrist with a razor.

REPAIRING CABLE TRACK.

The work of repairing the Geary street cable railway for a renewal of service is being rushed.

STATE POLICEMAN ARRESTED.

Martin Connolly, a member of the State police, was arrested by local patrolmen at an early hour yesterday morning on the sequel to a row with the crew of a Valencia street car as it was leaving the car barn ferry bound which he closed by whipping out his revolver and opening fire, fortunately without shedding any blood.

NEW BOARD OF HEALTH.

Mayor Taylor promises to appoint a new board of health tomorrow, all of the old members having resigned. The many of last season's players.

TEAMSTER FALLS OFF WAGON; BREAKS SKULL

Joseph Thomas, a teamster living at 1023 Forty-fifth street, fell from his wagon this morning at Thirty-second and Filbert streets, sustaining a fracture of the skull and bruises on the head. Thomas cannot account for the accident, but thinks the wagon must have struck a chuckhole which threw him off the seat.

Instead of running away with the driverless vehicle, the team stood still until the patrol wagon arrived and conveyed Thomas to the Receiving Hospital, where Dr. W. H. Irwin attended him. Thomas' injuries are not considered fatal. He was later removed to his home.

MOTHER OF LINEMAN UNEASY AT ABSENCE

The mother of W. C. Groves, residing at 47 East Midland street, Berkeley (West Side), Michigan, has written to Chief of Police Wilson, asking him to locate her son. The missing man is a telephone repairer, and a member of the order of Knights.

FRISCO WINS, 1 TO 0; GAME TO BE PROTESTED

A bad finish to a great game of ball marred the exhibition this morning at Freeman's Park. With no runs on either side in the ninth, Frisco came to bat in their half of the last inning. Irwin, first up, walked and Williams beat out a bunt. Street flew out to right field and Wheeler was sent in to bat for Melchior. Wheeler, after two strikes, got hit on the thumb and Spencer relieved him. Spencer stopped one in the ribs, and Esola, batting for Street, knocked a grounder to short and Irwin was caught at the plate. The ball was sent to first to retire Esola and Moore says he called him out, although Spencer was called safe at the plate by Ferraro. Dillon and Brashear both claim that Moore called Esola out at first, retiring the side. Dillon will probably protest the game on the strength of Moore's decision at first. The score: MORNING GAME.

WAR AGAINST SELF ASSERTION OF WEALTH.

The great war that education has to carry on in society is a war against the brutal self-assertion of vulgar wealth, with no quarter for the pleasure-hunting idler, and merciless contempt and ridicule for the snob. The prize of this contest is that the rich man shall gain his social position not by the mere fact of his possessing wealth, but by the manner in which he employs his wealth for worthy ends; and when that prize is won by the influence of educational and intellectual superiority, wealth itself will be subjugated for the promotion of true culture and all its elevating influences.—Carl Schurz.

RANSACK AND ROB HOME

Burglars Break Into Physician's House and Carry Off Watch and Chains.

Bold burglars are reported by Dr. H. A. Makenson to have broken into his house at 190 Forty-first street at 8 o'clock last night. The thieves ransacked the premises. They secured a solid gold watch, valued at $150, a gold chain worth $10, and a filled chain worth $5.

Entrance to the house was obtained by forcing open a dining room door. The police are investigating the case.

ARRESTED FOR DISTURBING PEACE

Mary Ellen and George Dickson of Fitchburg were arrested last night by Constable W. C. Allen on the charge of disturbing the peace of neighbors. They are imprisoned in the county jail.

Dickson, who is a house-mover, was arrested a few weeks ago for beating the woman, but she refused to prefer a charge against her companion, so he was released. Dickson had been drinking at the time and witnesses said he nearly killed her before a peace officer and crowd went to the rescue.

G. C. Smith, arrested in San Francisco by Detective Hodgkins of this city, was booked today at the City Prison on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

Smith is said to be implicated in a recent bogus check transactions in this city.

COTTON CROP COMING LATE

Growers of South Report on Half Number Bales to This Date.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The census bureau today issued its first bulletin on the cotton report for the season, as shown by returns from the growers of the South, showing a total of 13,436 bales up to September 1, as compared with 30,551 bales up to the same period last year.

In this statement round bales are counted as half bales. The great falling off is attributed to the lateness of the crop.

PLACE TORPEDOES ON TRACK; LAND IN JAIL

Wishing to swell the celebration of Admission Day Mike Miller and Tony Marcovich, two young Native Sons of Austria, this morning placed dynamite torpedoes on the tracks of the Tracton Company's electric car line at Eighth and Wilton streets.

Passing cars exploded the torpedoes, much to the enjoyment of the two Austrians and to the fright of passengers on the cars. While the fun was in progress Policemen Fahy and W. J. Emigh executed a flank movement and captured the two young men.

When the latter were informed that they had overlooked the fact that a city ordinance was passed just before last Fourth of July prohibiting the placing of torpedoes on car tracks they said their impression was that the ordinance in question applied only to national holiday violations.

Both were lodged in the city prison to end their day's celebration.

ing, which at Orinda Park, was held up to the early evening on the lonely Orinda road.

Foss describes the highwayman as being unusually polite and accommodating, for after taking his watch and a pocket he returned them at the request of his victim. The footpad secured only a small amount, $5 in all, although Foss has nearly a hundred dollars on his person, $50 of which he had concealed in an inner vest pocket.

The highwayman was about to search his vest when he was frightened away by a noise.

The man wore a dark sack suit and black hat and spoke with an Irish accent.

ALLEGES LABORER GETS UGLY; IS ARRESTED

BERKELEY, Sept. 9.—A. C. Gubbins, stage name, Hope Marnie, became the wife of Arthur Tarpye of Alameda in St. Mark's Church today. The wedding was extremely simple and only the immediate friends of the young people were present.

The Rev. Norman Guthrie of Alameda, an intimate friend of Mr. and Mrs. Tarpye, performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Edward L. Parsons, rector of St. Mark's.

The bride looked very charming in an imported gown of white lace, trimmed with Irish gold lace. Her bridesmaid was Miss Frances Price of Alameda, who also wore white. The bridegroom was attended by Clarence Reed as his best man.

Miss Vickers was given away by Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Price, old-time friends of the pretty bride's mother, as all her relatives are on the other side of the ocean.

Immediately following the ceremony

A laborer, was arrested in this city last night on a charge of kidnapping. The complaint sworn to by Thomas Daquise, bagman for the Key Route at the Berkeley station. In the complaint Daquise stated that Gubbins "noted in a very suspicious manner the movements of the worker and threatened to throw himself beneath the wheels of the train. Others who were present at the time were J. H. Merrill of 22-4 Atherton; G. T. Brown and Thomas Brotherton, both of this city."

BOY KILLED BY BIG AUTO

Woman Crushed Beneath Machine Which Turns Turtle in Second Tragedy

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 13.—Special automobiles were responsible for two accidents yesterday, one of which resulted fatally. Little Zin, the 13-year-old son of Mr. Zin of Los Angeles, was run down and almost instantly killed by a big touring car driven by George Bruce, who was arrested and charged with manslaughter.
Miss Alice Ferguson, pinioned beneath a runaway which turned turtle, was accidentally hurt, but not seriously injured.
Little Zin died in addition to other injuries.
Little Millard Zin met his death at twentieth and Mission streets yesterday.
The boy had been playing with a toy of a vegetable wagon. Unmindful of the speeding automobile coming up the street, he pushed the toy wagon directly in the path of the flying auto.
The machine passed completely over his head, crushing the toy wagon beneath the machine at the time of the accident

Nonsense From Fresno.

We find this editorial comment in the Fresno Republican: "There is gossip from Oakland and Berkeley that the 'organization' leaders threaten to turn the California delegation from Roosevelt to Fairbanks if Roosevelt refuses and Fairbanks favors the appointment of the push candidate for the Berkeley postoffice. That is one of the strong reasons why the 'organization' should not have the California delegation to deliver either way. It is also rumored that the 'organization' will cut down the University appropriations next session in revenge for President Wheeler's activity in the post-office fight."

Our Fresno contemporary should be above printing such rubbish. The organization leaders have made no threats of any kind in regard to the Berkeley postoffice. They have been falsely accused of making threats by persons and newspapers solely for political effect. Any man of ordinary knowledge should know that the Vice-President has nothing whatever to say in regard to the appointment of postmasters. His recommendation has never been sought by any of the aspirants that we know of. The story that Congressman Knowland met him at Sacramento and endeavored to enlist his influence was a barefaced fabrication. The Republican organization of Alameda county is for Roosevelt, and its loyalty to him in no wise depends upon who is appointed postmaster of Berkeley. That side of the controversy is simply an invention of so-called reformers who do not hesitate to put into circulation all sorts of falsehoods.

It is of very great importance to San Francisco that the Cliff House should be promptly rebuilt. The new structure should be spacious and artistic in design. Its exterior lines should harmonize with the picturesque surroundings. Never in its history did the Cliff House mean so much to San Francisco as now. It is famous the world over as a pleasure resort, and its speedy restoration at this time will be a great help in bringing once more the immense tide of pleasure travel that made San Francisco the meeting place of tourists from every section of the globe. As an advertisement for the city and as an attraction having a distinct commercial value, the hotel should be immediately rebuilt and its ancient glories restored. It would pay the business men of San Francisco to subscribe the money to rebuild it.

Sky Soaring Running Rank.

Sky-scraping architecture is running mad in New York when it ascends to the forty-seventh story, 742 feet from the floor of the basement to the base of the flag pole. The Washington monument shaft is 555 feet high from the level of the ground to the tip of its metal cap, but the new Singer skyscraper on Broadway, New York, is fifty-seven feet higher as measured from the sidewalk to the top of the roof of the cupola and 187 feet taller when measured from the floor of the basement. One hundred and thirty feet of the structure is below the surface of the sidewalk.

A building of such towering height can have no sane purpose beyond the advertising it gives to the manufacturing interest which it specially represents. Once it is occupied, it cannot fail to be a constant source of anxiety to the New York fire department, for, in those fires which have hitherto broken out in the skyscraper district of the city, the department's apparatus has been unable to save anything higher than the sixteenth story. This means that there will be thirty-one stories in the new structure with their living occupants which will be exposed to the mercy of the flames in the event of a conflagration.

San Francisco's experience has demonstrated that, under certain conditions, no modern structure, however carefully built to resist an invasion of flames, is fireproof, for the combustible contents and furnishings neutralize every provision made to render them fireproof. However, the lesson of the great conflagration has not been fully learned, otherwise the insane ambition for such sky-soaring structures as this latest addition to New York's group would not be fostered. There is a rational limit to the height of buildings in any city which should not be permitted to be over-reached. That limit should be regulated by the fire-extinguishing resources of the municipality when fortified with the most perfect equipment mechanical science can provide. Wherever that limit is exceeded a menace to the safety of life and property in the community is introduced in order to gratify the greed for the revenue derivable from office rents.

The yarn related by Isador Jacobs to the effect that Patrick Calhoun conspired with Eugene E. Schmitz, then mayor of San Francisco, and James H. Bowling, secretary of the Carmen's Union, to bring on the car strike is an intellectual and moral curiosity. Its tax on credulity overshadows the moral strabismus of its author. It is charitable to assume that Mr. Jacobs has allowed himself to be made the mouthpiece of a lunatic's conceptions. Of course all the parties to the alleged conspiracy vigorously deny the truth of the story. Denial was hardly necessary. On its face the yarn was incredible and malicious. That it was intended to discredit Bowling with the carmen and Calhoun with the business men is evident. Bowling and Cornelius are leaders of rival factions in the Carmen's Union. Cornelius is arrayed against the leaders of the Building Trades Council, who have been fiercely lampooned of late by the only newspaper that printed Mr. Jacobs' remarkable contribution to the fakes of the graft crusade.

The case of Senator Borah of Idaho presents several points of interest. Senator Borah is a special prosecutor in the cases against Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone, charged with conspiracy in connection with the assassination of former Governor Frank Steunenberg. Since the acquittal of Haywood a Federal grand jury has returned an indictment against Senator Borah for alleged complicity in land frauds. It is announced that Pettibone's trial will have to be postponed to allow Senator Borah to be tried. We hardly see why. Borah is not the prosecutor provided by law. Suppose he should be convicted, will Pettibone's trial have to be postponed till after Borah's term has been served? If Borah should be convicted and admitted to bail pending appeal, as Senators Burton and Mitchell were, it would be grotesque for him to appear in court as the prosecutor of another man accused of crime.

California Fruit in Eastern Markets.

Some Washington correspondent is drawing the long bow when he telegraphs the statement that "California lemons ought to be plentiful here as California navel oranges are in season." This State is capable of doing many wonderful things in the production of fruits and flowers, but it has not yet been able to ripen a navel orange crop early enough to deliver in an Eastern market in the beginning of September. The first shipment of California's orange crop in every season is sent to market invariably from the Vacaville district. This occurs during the early part of November—a month or six weeks in advance of the first shipment made from any orange grove in southern California.

If there are any California navel oranges in the Eastern markets now, it is not because the fruit is in season; but simply because some shrewd dealers have utilized a cold storage plant and have drawn from it the remains of the crop of last season which had been stored to supply the markets during the "off" season, and they are deluding credulous buyers into paying fancy prices for old crop fruit on the false representation that it is an especially early picking of the new season's crop. Eastern market men may assume that the deception is legitimate and that they are justified in its practice as a means of money-making; but it is dishonest. It is tricks of this kind which Eastern dealers play on their credulous customers that damage the interests of California orange growers who make a specialty of supplying the markets of the Eastern cities with the genuine early pickings of a new season's crop.

We have not seen just what it was Secretary Taft said about the Oklahoma constitution, but the inordinate length of that document indicates that it is a Pandora's box of political vagaries. It is crammed full of "new wrinkles," and will keep the courts busy for the next forty years trying to construe its meaning. Instead of framing an organic law under which a democratic community can control its affairs within fixed rules and in accordance with certain broad fundamental principles, the Oklahoma Constitutional Convention embodied a vast amount of crude legislation in a voluminous document that does not harmonize with itself. It is an example of a new community hobbling itself preparatory to starting out in the race of progress. Secretary Taft does not oppose Statehood for Oklahoma, but merely suggested the wisdom of voting down this crazy-quilt constitution and making another more suitable to the needs of the people.

Tunneling the Estuary.

If the time has not already arrived to remove the bridges which are obstructing the navigation of the harbor, it is surely close at hand. These bridges have been constructed with the permission of the War Department, which has exclusive jurisdiction over the navigable waters of the State, and they are being maintained by its sufferance. The department has the right to order them removed at pleasure and will doubtless do so whenever navigation increases to that stage when the obstruction of the fairway ceases to be tolerable. It has been officially intimated that the bridges cannot be much longer allowed to remain if the government harbor improvements are to be continued. The presence of the bridges has, in fact, been officially used as an argument against appropriations for the deepening of the harbor channel east of the bridges.

In anticipation of that event, the question of tunneling the estuary has been broached in the Board of Supervisors by Supervisor Kelley and a conference is to be held this week between a committee of the board, the mayors of this city and Alameda and representatives of the Southern Pacific and the Oakland Traction companies to discuss the proposition and to agree upon a plan of co-operation in order to share in the expense.

The commerce of the harbor has increased enormously within the past two years. It continues to increase by leaps and bounds. The water front on both shores of the estuary east of the bridges is being rapidly improved to accommodate the growing commerce. The indications are strong that the bridges will soon create a congestion in the traffic and formidably handicap the use of the new wharves which are fast occupying the section of the harbor front which is concerned in the existence of the bridges. The construction of a subway under the estuary is only a question of time and cost. There is no engineering impediment. And inasmuch as it is inevitable that the bridges must go sooner or later, our commerce must be crippled, it is timely now to take the matter up for consideration. It would be the height of imprudence to delay the matter until a time when their maintenance will have become a positive damage to commerce.

CAN'T UNDERSTAND STERLING.

Editor TRIBUNE:—I have read, re-read and vainly endeavored to absorb and digest that extravagant phantom by George Sterling, the "Wine of Wizardry," of which Ambrose Bierce says: "The verses serve no cause, tell no story, point no moral." Now if that criticism is true, and I think it is, it comes as near to being nothing as it is possible to define that term with words.

But Bierce says it is poetry, and Bierce ought to know, for he is a poetic critic. Now Bierce writes verse himself and some of it deserves to be dignified as poetry. Would he feel flattered by having his effusions dubbed as "nothings?"

Nobody, so far, has been able to satisfactorily define what poetry is. In the abstract it is the same as true beauty, music and art. There is no known universal formula by which it can be measured or estimated. A beautiful thought or sublime idea, elegantly expressed in appropriate language, gives pleasure by appealing to the intellect, the soul; and it is poetry, and the pleasurable sensation produced by its perusal varies in individuals in exact proportion to their susceptibility to receive impressions.

Some people are exceedingly susceptible, then there are those who are so unfortunate as to have no "ear for music," others "no eye for the beautiful," and still others with no appreciation of art. Such are to be pitied.

To me the "Wine of Wizardry" is but a conglomerated jumble of extravagant superlatives. As Bierce says: "It serves no cause, it tells no story, it points no moral," and if it is poetry its author has reached a plane of isolated elevation, an aesthetic paradise to which poor groveling mortals need never hope to attain.

Baby Not Strong?

Look to the FOOD

NATURE has determined just what food Baby must have to nourish the rapidly growing little body and mind. Healthy mother's milk is our perfect model. In this first tube of mother's milk we see just what baby's food should contain and how much of each ingredient there should be. In the second tube we have a much-used type of infant's food.

Notice how very poor it is in muscle and bone-building salts, muscle and tissue building proteins, and fats for fuel to keep baby warm. Of milk sugar there is nearly enough, but there is also something present which is not good for baby's steady diet—that is, cane sugar.

Cane sugar will make baby fat, perhaps, but weak, rickety, brainless—unhealthy. Most infant foods contain too little fat and too much sugar.

Now look at this tube of Sanipure Milk. Notice how very close the proportions as well as the quantities correspond to mother's milk. The very nature of the substitutes in Sanipure Milk are also very close to those in mother's milk—much closer than any plain cow's milk or any other infant's food.

There is no cane sugar in Sanipure Milk—nothing to disagree with Baby.

You can use Sanipure Milk for baby's steady diet and know that the food is right—that baby's plumpness is good, healthy flesh and that mind as well as body is being properly nourished. The formula is on every can. You can regulate the quantity as baby needs.

Our valuable book, "Baby's First Days," tells how and gives much valuable information every mother will be glad to have.

Promises Children of His Converts
Will Be Able to Talk at Birth

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—"I will wager any sum from $10,000 to $20,000, to be deposited in a New York bank, that any healthy man and woman who will live perfect lives according to my direction for fifteen months may become the parents of a child that can talk at birth, have an adult brain and stature at the age of five years and be a genius in any line that the parents shall have earnestly desired during those fifteen months of perfect living."

That is the statement made by Dr. Asher Gluck, who is the prophet of a new creed which has its abode in Chicago, and who further announced himself as the "Chief Architect of the New Race."

He is primarily an apostle of the simple life, and for the purpose of exploiting his faith he has come from the headquarters, at No. 1171 Milwaukee avenue, Chicago, to gain recruits. He was of the opinion yesterday, from the success that has followed his lectures and teachings, especially in the more crowded sections of the city, that New York will soon have a "simple life colony" of its own.

CONVERTS AT CHICAGO.

A number of converts will return to the colony in Chicago with Dr. Gluck, there to wear the simple garments and flowing hair that is considered necessary to the furthering of his project.

Of these converts Miss Helena M. Block, of Avenue G and East Ninety-eighth street, Canastota, Miss Emma Brooks, of No. 97 Willet street, where the Chief Apostle is making his headquarters in this city; Miss Etta Gluck, of the same address, and Miss Dorothy Goldstein of Worthman and New Jersey avenues, Brooklyn, are most enthusiastic over their resolves to better their kind according to the rules laid down by Dr. Gluck. At her home in Canastota yesterday, Miss Block told a reporter that she had determined to give her life in the service of the cause.

TEXT OF PLEDGE.

The following is in part the pledge she signed with this idea in view:

YOUTHS

APPEAL

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The "soul kiss" has taken the world by storm. Vesta La Vesta, its discoverer and interpreter, who may be found in her studio in the Brooklyn Arcade, when she is not shooting off through space as a planetary explorer and cosmologist, is being snowed under by letters from all over the globe, begging enlightenment on the new ethereal mode of affection.

Following "The American's" exclusive story on the new prophesies and her monopoly of the million-mile-long planetary brand of kiss, the fair exponent has been kept so busy answering inquiries from all over the world that she has been obliged to neglect for a time her "affinity" in Neptune in order to meet the demands upon her from a clamoring world.

Love-sick youths, dreamy maidens, professors, artists, lecturers, students of the occult—all are so vividly impressed with the description of the kiss as set forth in Vesta La Vesta's

CHICAGO DOCTOR BECOMES CHIEF ARCHITECT OF NEW RACE OF HUMAN BEINGS

"I hereby have this day joined the simple life equality system of my own free will and accord, to help this wonderful cause along; to live a natural life; to be known as a perfect human; to unite for co-operative efforts in bringing about the perfection of the race; to fully develop man's twelve senses, seeing, hearing, smelling, tasting, touching, feeling, intuition, transmission of ideas, telepathy, spiritual discernment, clear sight and realization."

"Signed, the twenty-fifth day of August, 1907, with my own hand."

"HELENA M. BLOCK."

"I first heard of Dr. Gluck's wonderful idea for the betterment of the human race through one of his lectures," said Miss Block, "and since then I have studied it still further, until I am convinced that it is the perfect way to live. I shall go to Chicago with some other converts he has made and will thoroughly test the efficacy of it."

"We will wear simple made clothing of linen, even the soles of our shoes being of the same material, for it is not right to wear anything from the dead body of one of our own kind, as all animals are. We will dress exactly as the men do in a double-breasted coat, trousers, shirt, a linen tie and a linen cap. Our hair will be unbound, for that is the simple and natural way of wearing it."

"One of the principal ideas of the new religion is to save money to further it until all the world shall hear of and come to know that it is right to live noble lives, free from the contamination of evil passions that are now the curse of the race."

CHINA'S EMPRESS WANTS
TWO LIVE GRIZZLY BEARS

SEATTLE, Sept. 8.—Stephen Mason, an old hunter and trapper, known all over the west as one of the most remarkable of sports, has just received an unusual commission from the Empress Dowager of China. Through a fur company of this place Mason is commissioned to capture a pair of real grizzly bears and four live wild cats.

The Empress is accommodating an imperial museum of the world's famous but fast disappearing animals, and is to include in the collection the above named species. Mason will endeavor to fill the order in the wilds of the Cascade Mountains near the Canadian International line.

Several months ago a Seattle firm sent three buffalo and a cage of cougars to her Majesty.

It is said the Chinese Empress is endeavoring to acquire the menagerie animals of all the earth.

Brooklyn Broker's Request Is 'Mighty Difficult' Is Comment of Justice Dickey in Unique Case.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 8.—The unique application to have a woman's lips sealed forever" was made yesterday to Justice Dickey in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, by Daniel Tallman, a broker, when he asked the court to enjoin Margaret Markland, formerly in his employ, from divulging to her present employer, or any one else information concerning his business methods.

AFTER TWENTY YEARS.

Tallman said that after twenty years of thought he had devised a peculiar system of conducting business and that as a result of it he has been successful. Where others to become acquainted with his workings, he declared, his business would be "injured, if not destroyed."

Every girl entering his employ, he said, is required to take an oath that she would "forever keep silent" what she had learned of his business methods. The Markland girl subscribed to this oath, as well as the others.

THEY LEFT HIM.

Most of his employees were induced, after they had been with him for some time, by offers of larger salaries, to leave him. He said Miss Markland was one poem that they have lost no time in urging the teacher to send them fuller information.

One sentimental maiden of Newark, whose Romeo is at present in Egypt, yearns to know if she may not send kisses to him there. She writes:

I could then kiss him as much as I like, as you say the soul kiss can be shot through the air any distance. Please tell me when I can begin taking lessons. I do not want my family to know of this."

"Please, please let me know, soon, as it is so urgent. Very truly,"

A psychic from Boston thus addresses the prophetess:

"DESCRIPTION OF SUBLIME."

"Vesta La Vesta: Dear Madam—Your writings have appealed to me so strongly from a soul point of view that I gladly respond to the soul influence, as so few mortals possess a responsive soul activity. It is mostly from the superficial or brain forces through an external ruling that prompts the individual to act."

Telephone Girls in Great Stir to Discover Which One Got Spick and Span Duck Suit From Off the Hook in Office Cloak Room

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Telephone girls in the Seventy-ninth street exchange have been all stirred up for a week over the question of who got a new white duck coat, tailor-made, belonging to one of them, Margaret Mulvey, eighteen years old, who lives at No. 25 East Eighty-first street. The coat was taken at night, after Margaret had carefully hung it on a rack in the cloak room of the exchange, and no trace has yet been found of it.

TWO OTHERS. Among them Elizabeth Dowling, eighteen, of No. 141 East Eighty-fifth street, and Frances Boyd, also eighteen, of No. 1238 Avenue A, who had admired Margaret's new duck suit, also got suits like it about ten days ago, and the question came up when Margaret's coat disappeared as to whose coat it was that was lost. The coats were much alike, it is said. But Margaret got a summons for several of her fellow workers at the 'phones; and Magistrate Corrigan had them before him yesterday morning in the Harlem Court.

Various accounts of her remarkable career have been published here and in America, usually beginning with asserting that originally she was a flower girl or an orange seller in Rome—which she has denied without revealing her initial steps in life.

A new version, which seems to have her sanction, is that about 1900 she worked in a newspaper office in Rome at folding the printed sheets, employment obtained for her by her father, who earned a modest living by selling papers.

WORKED AND SANG.

As she worked she sang gayly, irrepressibly. One day the proprietor of a modest cafe chantant, the Campanone, went to the office with an advertisement or to answer one, and was so taken with her singing that he offered her an engagement. Lina was then sixteen. Her voice was not great,

Woman Is an Exotic

The question of woman's sphere has a psychological basis. Life being dual, woman stands for the negative principle, man the positive. For this reason, any calling which brings forth the creative powers of heart and mind is woman's sphere. As a home-maker she finds her

Who Do You Think Is Right?

Here is a chance for the women readers of the women's page of THE TRIBUNE.

Charles M. Schwab, the millionaire steel man, says that the sphere of a woman begins at home.

Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, society leader and brilliant leader of fashion, says the sphere of a woman is where she chooses to make it.

Mr. Schwab says that marriage is always the goal of woman, and Mrs. Fish says marriage is a minor consideration to a career.

WHICH OF THE TWO DO YOU BELIEVE IS RIGHT?

THE TRIBUNE will pay $20 for the best letter on this subject. Send in your opinion. The contest will remain open until September 15. Write plainly on one side of the paper, and write clearly, limiting your letter to one hundred words.

natural place and highest development. On another plane, her love nature may find expression in religious or philanthropic work. And if she possesses creative genius and espouses the career of a writer or painter, then her art becomes her husband, and the children of mind or brush fill her life. But in the commercial world, woman is at best an exotic.

Love Is Greatest
Reward Woman Can Gain

I think, since woman was created to be loved and to love, that the most suitable occupation is the development of her affection and performance of antipathetic pleasures her husband or lover enjoys.

One has only to compare the sweet reward a woman can gain and the pathway of life is forever a-bloom when you are aiding the one you know—love—yourself.

This is decidedly far better than any artistic, professional or business career. One has only to compare the sweet reward of women devoted to home, husband and children with the acute vision of the business woman to realize the mistake of nature or circumstance has made.

Problem of Home or Career Too Deep for Solution, and Evaded by Mrs. Henry Clews

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 8.—"I agree with Lord Bacon that generalities are barren." Mrs. Henry Clews, wife of the Wall street banker, and a prominent member of Newport society, delivered this ultimatum with delightful feminine tact when I confronted her with the question "Which really enjoys the greater independence, the woman tied to a career or the woman tied to a home?"

says Angela Morgan.

I put the question to Mrs. Clews as follows:

"After all her vaunted independence, does the wage-earning woman, the business woman, enjoy as much real freedom as her sister who works at home? Which is more free—the home woman or the woman with a career?"

Mrs. Clews, pink and fresh, and charming in her duffy morning gown of rose-colored liberty silk, smiled serenely upon me from her place among the sofa cushions, and her handsome eyes brooded a moment. Then she leaned forward with a gesture of conviction.

"This question of the wage-earning woman is a big question," she said, "and I will tell you what I think about it. I think, honestly and sincerely, that it should be taken up and discussed by persons who have made a study of such subjects. No amount of desultory talk and advice can solve the problem. We cannot get at the heart of it by generalities. To be discussed at all, it should be discussed by those competent to give opinions."

Mrs. Clews modestly asserted that she did not consider herself competent.

TAKES DAILY PLUNGE.

Our conversation took place in the library of her picturesque Newport cottage, The Rocks, which commands a fine sweep of the ocean. She had come in from her daily plunge in the surf but a half hour before and was still glowing from its effects.

Asking me not to consider our talk an interview, but just a little chat, Mrs. Clews continued "This is a subject that demands one's concentrated thought, one's earnest study. To offer advice when one is not capable of advising, to me is not only futile but wrong. For example, it would be wrong for me to advise other women, for I am not fitted to do it. Home or career for women is the question you ask. I cannot answer it."

"Don't you think?" I suggested, "that the woman at home has greater freedom, a better chance to care for herself, greater opportunities for culture? Her time at least is her own, not her employer's. She is really mistress of the situation, is she not?"

Mrs. Clews could not make such a decided assertion. She folded her pretty arms and smiled from the rosy cloud that enveloped her. I thought of the leisure at her command, of the time for outdoor exercise, for furt bathing, for morning, driving, luncheon, dining, for all the fine, mercurious pleasures in which Newport colonists indulge.

situation is she not?" I had said, but another picture, that of a woman in totally different circumstances, struggling with home duties, never free to live for herself, a slave to the domestic problems that hounded her night and day.

Mrs. Clews's next statement seemed particularly apt.

QUESTION NEEDS STUDY.

"No; generalities will not cover the topic; they never do. As Bacon said, they are barren. One should study the question from all sides before attempting to offer a solution or even to express an opinion."

Mrs. Clews said there were only a few persons in the world who had thought about the subject with sufficient earnestness and thoroughness to form a real opinion.

"Some women, however, are fully fitted to handle the entire question. They have studied it thoroughly."

I suggested Mrs. Parsons, noted for her book on trial marriage. Mrs. Clews modestly referred to her daughter.

Persons is able to attack the subject. She has investigated, has devoted time to research and is therefore able to talk about it," she said.

"Which has the greater independence, the woman at home or the woman with a career?" I still ask the questions, Mrs. Clews might answer, but then Mrs. Clews agrees with Lord Bacon that "generalities are barren."

SOCIETY GOSSIP

Now that the clubs have resumed their sessions, the part that they play in the city's social life is beginning to be felt.

On Tuesday Ithell will gather a huge and brilliant company of guests, the occasion being the opening luncheon of the club year. Plans for over 300 have been arranged and the indications are that the luncheon will be one of the largest in the club's history.

Senator Joseph R. Knowland, who, with Mrs. Knowland, will attend as guest of honor, will address the ladies, and it is expected that Mr. Grant also will speak.

Mrs. James G. Allen will preside as hostess. Mrs. J. P. Hume, Miss Eva Powell, Mrs. Charles J. Woodbury, Mrs. E. C. von Helms, Mrs. Harry P. Carlton, Mrs. Frank Hunt and Mrs. Willard Williamson will assist Mrs. Allen in receiving.

WESTERN TRIP.

Fred M. Tillson and wife left on Saturday evening, September 7, for a trip through the Western States. Mr. Tillson has been in the employ of the Southern Pacific Company for twenty-five years and has leave of absence for two months. He will visit his old home in East Bridgewater, Mass.

During their absence Mr. and Mrs. Tillson will also visit Boston, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Philadelphia, New York and Washington.

Mrs. Tillson is a native daughter and this is her first visit to the Western States. She is the matron of Oakland Chapter No. 149, Order of Eastern Stars.

IN SWITZERLAND.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hogan and their daughter, Miss Ella Hogan, are at present in Geneva. They are enchanted with Switzerland and Italy, and seem loath to leave there. They are not yet planning a home.

AN ENGAGEMENT.

Announcement has been made of the betrothal of Miss Beatrice Benson and Albert Moser of Philadelphia. The wedding will take place in September. Both are accomplished musicians.

GOING TO EUROPE.

The presence of the Reverend Robert Benson in Oakland was made the occasion of an extended, though formal reception to the popular singing priest, whose long absence from his place at St. Mary's Church has been keenly felt.

Reverend Benson is here for only a brief stay, however, as he is to leave on the 15th for Europe on an eight months' leave of absence. During his absence Father Benson will visit the principal musical centers of the old world, renewing many of the delights of his forgotten student days.

The popular clergyman will remain in Oakland during the week and will sing the high mass at St. Mary's on next Sunday.

ALLEN-PARRY.

Miss Agnes C. Allen and George Moore will be married at noon today by the Rev. Father McSweeney of the Church of St. Francis de Sales. The ceremony was performed in the presence of relatives and a few close friends. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss

Sunday Circus Points to Moral Decline, Declares Dr. Baker

As Oakland grows in size it grows in wickedness and is now getting quite decadent, declared the Rev. E. E. Baker, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church last night. His sermon was on "The Moral Decline of Oakland," and was in part as follows:

Permission given by a city official to a circus to perform twice on the Lord's Day undoubtedly indicates that Oakland is declining morally. A circus is not of necessity a bad thing when you have a small boy to protect you, or one might even enjoy it without a small boy, but I think that the man who gave a circus permission to perform on Sunday ought to be ashamed of himself and ought to be remembered by the diabolical when he again seeks public position. The fact that the public parade was deferred until Monday morning shows that, no matter how low the public mind may have sunk, they yet have the few conscientious scruples left which forbid their disturbing the Lord's Day with their parade.

MORAL RETROGRESSION.

Dr. Baker referred to the Ringling Brothers' circus, which performed in Oakland yesterday, and said that the fact that Oakland had become a "circus town" simply pointed out its moral retrogression.

"According to the theory of evolution, every individual and every community must either get better or it must retrograde," he said, "though it may progress in some respects, yet it may decline morally. This is true of the city of Oakland. With all its material progress, with all its increase of population, of wealth, of public spirit and of improvement, it has not kept pace morally. To this accusation the officials and the press make the reply that Oakland has during the last few months become a metropolitan city, and the inevitable elements of a metropolis have among them that of evil. But the very statement is in reality an apology for existing evils.

MORE SALOONS.

"A few years ago there was agitation in the city to limit the number of saloons. The saloonmen and the members of the City Council, who are harder to deal with than the liquor men themselves, had practically agreed to limit the number of saloons. But that fact that there is an increase of license in this respect, where once there was agitation along limitation lines, and the fact that there are over 300 saloons in Oakland then things point surely to the fact that Oakland is becoming more and more degraded. The recent forcing of the Y. M. C. A. from premises in East Oakland to make way for a saloon is evidence. And the fact that when the venerable Mrs. Susan Mills protested against granting a license to a saloon which she thought was too near her college, and her protest was practically ignored by the supervisors of Alameda county, reflects shame upon the community and shows the lower moral tone of the county. Our in Frutvale also the objections of the decent members of the community to questionable resorts are ignored.

TOO MUCH PLEASURE.

"There is too much pleasure seeking in the city of Oakland. The expression 'Jovial of pleasure rather than of God' is a true photograph of the present moral state of Oakland. Pleasure in its right place is supposed to mean edification—a building up of the strength for further endeavor, and not, as it has become in Oakland, the factor which works toward undermining the community. The condition to which morals have sunk in the city of Oakland, and the task which has risen before those who would fight this evil, appeal me.

"There were once no theaters in Oakland on Sunday. Now they always run Sunday nights. Besides them the church has to compete with the automobile, which has probably come to stay. I do not object to the automobile except in some uses of it. When in the hand of pleasure it takes social groups away from the influence of the church on Sundays it is undoubtedly a bad influence in the community.

GREAT IN INEQUITY.

"Oakland and some of the other cities of this coast still have forms of sport that no civilized community would tolerate. Without doubt Tuesday's newspaper will devote more pages to the prize fight than they will devote columns to the churching on this side of the bay and in San Francisco combined. The papers, who have hold of the public pulse and reflect its condition, are searching out to tell the public not what the decent people of the community are doing, but are devoting page after page to gossip concerning people who call themselves gentlemen. How little the community considers the forces that are working for good in its interest over the forces whose workings tend more and more toward ruin. Oakland is destined to become a great city, but it were better to have it small in its purity than great in its iniquity."

ARTIST EARLE MAKES DENIAL

Says He Sent No Telegram to His Father-in-Law in France.

NEW YORK, September 9.—Ferdinand Pinney Earle, the artist who sent his wife abroad in order, it is alleged, that he may marry another woman and who was mobbed and given from Monroe, N. Y., where he lived, by indignant citizens, denies the statements made by his father-in-law, Monsieur Fishbacher, in an interview in Paris which was published yesterday. The Paris correspondent is a very reliable man. Earle made the following signed statement to-night:

"I have read with mingled amazement and indignation the alleged interview with my father-in-law, Monsieur Fishbacher. It begins with a telegram which I am declared to have sent from St. Malo, France, to him, reading as follows: 'I have found my twin soul and am reliving the unforgettable Tristan and Isolde love story. Julia Kutzner is my affinity for life.' This telegram is an absolute myth.

APPEALS TO WIFE.

"I cannot believe that Monsieur Fishbacher said I had beaten my wife during our honeymoon. I have never been charged with cruelty. I appeal to Mrs. Earle herself. It is true that I have suffered from neurasthenia and prolonged sickness, and that this has caused me much unhappiness at times. 'I attribute the bitterness of some of my father-in-law's remarks entirely to the unforeseen possibility that has overwhelmed us all, and I regret that the papers have dragged his quiet family into publicity. The salient fact has not changed since I left him in Paris. But none of us could foresee this whirlwind of trouble brought on by the priest. (Signed.)

"FERDINAND PINNEY EARLE." Friends of Mrs. Earle declared tonight that before she left home she had asked for all in her trouble from the French Ambassador at Washington. So far from the breaking up of the household being a peaceful one, it is now declared that a bitter fight has overtaken between Mr. and Mrs. Earle. Members of her own family at last advised Mrs. Earle that her father being a citizen of France, the French Government would take an interest in her case should she seek refuge in France, and it was through their efforts that she made a trip to Washington and had a conference with Mr. Jussend.

The Ambassador, according to this report, advised Mrs. Earle that she could not gain a reconciliation with her husband and was determined to leave him, to go to the home of her father in Paris.

AUTO KNOCKS BOY TO STREET

Lad Injured by Machine While Making Effort to View Circus Parade.

While dodging among the wagons and cars at Tenth street and Broadway this morning to get in line to see the circus parade, a 12-year-old boy, son of H. A. Reimann, living at 1811 Elkhorn street, Berkeley, was knocked down by an automobile. The machine threw the boy to the hard pavement so heavily that he sustained a cut on the side of his nose and bruises about the face.

According to the boy's father the automobile was going at a rapid rate of speed through the crowded street. He took his son to the Receiving Hospital, where Dr. Irwin dressed the wounds.

MOTORCYCLIST IS TOSSED BY STREET CAR

William Read of 145 Rutland street, San Francisco, was run down by a street car at Seventeenth street and Telegraph avenue last night while riding a motorcycle. He says he ran in the car track and could not get out of the "rut" made by street car wheels until the car was upon him.

Read was thrown a distance of several feet and received cuts and bruises about the head. He was not seriously hurt, nor was his automobile, which escaped with slight damage.

THANKS POLICE CHIEF WILSON

Officers of Labor Parade Appreciate Way Streets Were Kept Open.

The following letter has been received at police headquarters:

"Adelbert Wilson, Chief of Police of Oakland, Cal.
"Dear Sir: As the grand marshal of the Labor Day parade I desire to comment on the admirable manner in which the streets of the city were kept open for the marching thousands. At no time was the progress of that great pageant impeded, but rather we had a perfectly clear way from the start to the end of the parade.
"This speaks well for the arrangements made by the police and the efficiency of the directing and of the force.
"I wish personally to thank you and the men under your direction for the interest taken in so greatly adding in making the parade this success it was.
"Yours in THANKS,
"The Building Trades Council joins me in offering acknowledgment of your assistance and in congratulating you on the perfect organization displayed by the department under your direction on that occasion. You can rest proud of the fact that the greatest parade that Oakland ever saw was enabled by your assistance to march through the streets of the city without a hitch.
"Cordially yours,
"J. B. HOWEN,

4 HOUR SLEEP IN CIRCUS TENT COST $34 AND WATCH

Frank Powers Thought He Was in a Jungle When He Woke Up Among Show Animals.

Frank Powers of the Newland House, is filled with experience after a four-hour's summer last night on the Ringling circus grounds, near Telegraph avenue. He is also minus $34 in cash and a silver watch.

According to the story told today to a friendly policeman by Powers the latter was determined to witness the starting of the circus parade this morning. He went to the circus grounds at midnight, and when the wild beasts of the menagerie had quieted down, Powers sunk to sleep himself, propped up against the soft side of a tent-pole.

THOUGHT OF JUNGLE.

At daybreak Powers was awakened and for a few moments imagined himself in the jungle. Elephants were trumpeting calls for more hay, lions were roaring for fresh beef and monkeys chattering for peanuts, and the ostriches honking for tennis balls or any old thing for breakfast.

Powers felt for his silver watch to ascertain how long he would have to wait the start of the parade.

No watch.

LONGED FOR HAM AND.

Then he thought an "eye opener" with ham and eggs on the side, would fit him, and he felt for his purse with its $34. Purse gone. Likewise $34.

Powers didn't wait for the parade to start. He hastened it to police headquarters and told his troubles. Now he is wondering if his circus grounds' experience is worth $34 and a silver watch.

GREAT MULTITUDE WILL GREET RINGLINGS TONIGHT

Last Performance of Big Circus to Take Place This Evening—Parade Interests Thousands.

The last performance of the Ringling circus troupe, at the intersection of Telegraph avenue and Fourteenth street will be given tonight and there is no doubt that immense throngs will be attracted to the circus grounds at midnight, and those who intend to witness the show will go early.

This is especially true with respect to those who desire to purchase reserved seats because, regardless of the fact that there are thousands of these seats provided, the excellence of the performance, the artistic skill of those who take part in the many acts, the superb quality of the animals, along all lines and the beauty and richness of the costumes and trappings early cause those seats to be preempted with avidity.

SPLENDIDLY MANAGED.

That was the case at the performance yesterday afternoon and evening and again at the show this afternoon. There will be no exception to this rule at the performance tonight because it is readily admitted that no finer, more complete, better managed, more extensive and, at the same time, more expensive circus is to be found in the world.

To properly characterize the several hundred features on the program would require pages in THE TRIBUNE. For this reason it may be necessary to say in this connection that there is no act on the bill, no feature in the menagerie which is not the best that money and skill can produce. As money can do all things it follows that the performers and performances are the best of the kind that can be assembled and given on earth.

BRILLIANT PARADE.

This morning the parade, which is always a welcomed feature of a visit of the Ringling Brothers to this city, was on a scale of elaboration, completeness, beauty and richness never equaled by anything of the kind in this part of the world. Although the chariots, cages, bands and other features were in perfectly continuous line, the procession took nearly three quarters of an hour to pass a given point. The vehicles of every character in line had all the freshness which could be imparted by painter's brush, and the carved work with which the exterior walls of many of the vans were garnished shone like burnished gold.

The horses which hauled these massive vehicles were round-bodied, black, luxuriantly powerful, self-contented and dignified.

Each animal, whether bringing in review a king, queen, prince or princess of the ring, the Nile, the jungle or the forest, was in itself of royal lineage and adorned with regal dignity, as if it felt it was no less an attraction than the featured following in its train.

MANY MOUNTS.

There was a small army of mounted men and women, and it would seem as if there was a good-natured rivalry between these two arms of the show, a rivalry between the sexes, in fact, as to which should bear the palm of supremacy. There were these, vivandiers, marchionesses, countesses, seigneuses and queens among the women and Uhlans, cavaliers, cuirassiers, voltigeurs, cavalrymen and knights among the men. Women and men were clad in costly manner suggesting the erstwhile splendor of the "field of the cloth of gold."

MENAGERIE COMPLETE.

The menagerie display was complete. To the music of the bands and the strident tones of the calliope were added the sweet notes of a chime of bells, which spoke of the little church in the Glen, of Sunday solemnity and holiday cheer and brotherly love.

Thousands of people witnessed the procession and there was not a person, young or old, who did not feel that this feature alone was worth the price which it admitted to the closing performance tonight.

FINDS BRASS KNUCKLES IN CARMAN'S POCKET

While Policeman Gallagher was stationed this morning at Tenth street and Broadway, he observed a stranger whose back pocket contained some substance which caused his coat to bulge outward. Gallagher led the stranger into conversation, learned that his name was George Chestnut, that he is a street car conductor by occupation and recently from Ohio.

Visions of strike-breakers flitted through Gallagher's mind. He felt of Chestnut's back pocket and found therein a pair of brass knuckles.

"It's you to the lock-up," said Gallagher, and he rang for the police auto.

Chestnut deposited $20 bail and went to his home, where he was arrested after he had been booked at the police station.

SALOONKEEPER FINDS HIS TILL ROBBED

When he locked his saloon door at 612 Broadway shortly after midnight Saturday night, J. P. Banchin says he left $8 in nickels and $3 in silver coin in the till. He is convinced that he overlooked the fact that he also locked in a man, because yesterday morning when he opened his saloon the silver coin and nickels were missing and the front door unlocked.

Banchin says the door could be unlocked by a stranger only from the inside. He has notified the police and told them who he suspects of taking his money.

MYSTERY OF STRANGE AND ANCIENT DEVICE SOLVED

Resists for Years Near Whitelaw Dock and Is Found to Be a Huge Gold Dredger.

For a number of years past, in the midst of the manufacturing district and near the Whitelaw dock in the harbor in East Oakland, has lain a peculiar structure which has been the marvel of the thousands of people who have passed in that vicinity during that time.

To some, the structure has suggested an isolated propelling power of a dismantled stern-wheel steamer cast upon the flats until its bones fell asunder. To others it has suggested the Ferris wheel of the mid-winter fair of other days slowly grinding to pieces under the influence of the elements.

Still to others it has appeared in divers shapes, but every person has wondered how it got there and what was to be its ultimate fate.

RIDDLE SOLVED.
The riddle has at length been solved. The structure is an immense wheel which is intended for the dredging of streams in search of gold and, on closer examination, will be found attached to a floating barge with a deck house of the style found on the suction dredgers which may be seen at work from time to time in the local harbor and across the bay.

The barge and deck house referred to, with the wheel, form a gold dredge which has a history and on which work was suspended for years, but now gives evidence of renewed activity because litigation over it has been brought to an end and the projectors of the enterprise say that the structure will be rushed to completion and before long the search for hidden gold beneath the streams of California will be undertaken with vim and persistence.

The dredge was designed by Albert Boake, an engineer of long standing and reputation, and was built by a stock company.

LITIGATION ENSUES.
Before it was completed litigation grew out of differences of opinion between the designer and associates in the enterprise. For several years the case was fought in the courts. Boake finally purchased labor claims amounting to a large sum for $8000 by way of settling the dispute and, included in the claim, was a large amount due to himself for professional services.

Now a corps of men are completing the hull and superstructure of the contrivance and placing the great cutting and dredging buckets on the wheel. This wheel is of steel and is fifty-two feet in height. Attached to it will be eight buckets, which will revolve with it when the wheel is in motion. There is a sharp edge all around the mouth of each bucket and this edge will cut the soil below the stream.

DROPS IN CHUTE.
The revolving wheel will carry the buckets aloft and as they are descending their contents will be dropped into a chute and conducted thence to the hold, where they can be worked for gold. The whole machine is 150 feet long and 37 feet wide and up to the present time has cost $100,000.

DIES OF INJURIES.
Mrs. Lucinda Tighman, a negro, who received internal injuries last Wednesday when she stepped in front of an electric car of the Fourteenth street line, died yesterday at her home, 2143 Market street. She was 75 years old. Her remains were removed to the morgue, where an inquest will be held.

ANOTHER $50 BICYCLE IS ADDED TO TRIBUNE PRIZES

AMBITIOUS BOYS
NOW MAY HUSTLE

Second Wheel One of Best in Local Market.

According to its usual liberality in adding prizes, THE TRIBUNE is glad to announce the addition of another bicycle to be awarded to the boy receiving the second highest number of votes in the district east of Grove Street. Now, boys, this gives you two chances to obtain a bicycle. The second bicycle will be one of the best $50 wheels on the market. If you want a wheel this is the time to get in and win a prize. A little work after school will bring you what you have wanted. Interest the scholars at your school in your success, and you will find how easy it is to obtain a fine bicycle.

BUSINESS TRAINING.
In addition to winning a prize, the business training that a boy secures in hustling for a bicycle is a valuable asset. It gives a boy perseverance as well as confidence in his own ability. Now is the time to show what you can do. Send in your name now, and start to work. The contest has hardly begun, and as may be seen by the list of votes the scores of the candidates are very small.

FLAGS, BANNERS, BADGES.
Either banners, flags or badges to the value of $250 can be selected by the lodge, union or organization winning the $250 prize offered for that class. If your organization already has a banner this is time to secure a handsome flag or badge. The prizes are to be bought from B. Pasquale & Co., 1100 Webster street, San Francisco. The high grade of goods made by this firm is so firmly established that it is a guarantee that nothing better could be secured.

ENTER YOUR ORGANIZATION.
As yet, very few organizations have entered the contest. This is your opportunity, and you should not let this chance of obtaining a fine banner, flag or badge pass by. Send in the nomination of your organization before it is too late.

STANDING OF CANDIDATES.
The standing of the candidates will be published in THE TRIBUNE on Tuesday, and on each day during the contest except Mondays. If your name is not in the list, it should be. Someone will win the prizes, and why not you?

MISS L. PIERUCCINI.

MISS PIERUCCINI.
Miss Lottie Pieruccini is one of the most popular young ladies in West Berkeley, and is heartily endorsed by her neighbors for the $500 prize. Her friends are promising her their aid and she is confident of polling a large vote.

Miss Genevieve Summers was the winner of the piano in this district in the last contest, and is taking an interest in the candidates entered this time.

MANNER OF VOTING.
A coupon good for one vote will be published in each issue of THE TRIBUNE until the end of the contest. This coupon, if clipped and sent to the Contest Manager of THE TRIBUNE will

PRIEST TAKES THIEF IN ACT

Assumes Role of Detective and Lands Sixteen-Year-Old Youth.

Brother Joseph, of St. Mary's College faculty, cleverly enacted the role of detective yesterday and thereby solved the mystery surrounding the robberies in the locker rooms of the institution. As a result of his efforts William Day, 16 years of age and living in East Oakland, has been arrested by the police, and it is probable that much of the stolen property will be recovered.

The robberies started about three weeks ago, the clothing hanging in the lockers being rifled and the valuables taken. At first the case was one of petty pilfering, but lately $100 and two gold watches were missed.

ALWAYS ON SUNDAY.
In working on the case Brother Joseph discovered that the robberies always took place on Sunday, when the college campus was thrown open to various amateur ball teams. Yesterday he climbed up a ladder, and from his position was able to peer through the transom. In a short time, it is asserted, Day entered the locker room, rifled the clothing and was immediately taken in charge and handed over to the police.

WILL NOT PROSECUTE MAN WHO STABBED HIM

"Just a little accident resulting from a misunderstanding between brothers-in-law" is the explanation given by those most interested in the knife-clashing on the neck and arm received by former sanitary inspector Samuel Smith yesterday.

The police were notified and Sergeant Mulvey went to Smith's residence at Thirty-second and West streets to investigate the accident. Smith refused to swear to a complaint or tell who had used the knife. Mrs. Smith intimated that her husband was in the wrong. As near as could be learned it was Smith's brother-in-law that wielded the knife. Smith acknowledged that he had drawn the knife with which he was cut, and said that he had laid it down when his brother-in-law picked it up and cut him.

Neither Smith nor his wife would tell the name of the man who inflicted the injury, and the latter had left the house when the officer arrived.

BREAKS BACK IN 30 FOOT FALL

Contractor on Motorcycle
Plunges Over Embankment and is Fatally Hurt.

John Breen, a contractor twenty-three years old and living at 1283 East Eleventh street, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon while speeding along the Treble Glen road near Piedmont on his motorcycle. He was going at a high rate of speed when his machine caught on a projecting tree root. The course was diverted to the edge of the high precipice, over which he went, falling thirty feet.

Breen fell through tree branches, which checked the momentum of the fall. When he struck the ground on his spine the spinal column snapped and he died.

HEAR MAN'S GROANS.
The young man lay groaning at the base of the embankment when people passing on the road were attracted by the cries of the sufferer. The police were called and Breen was taken in the patrol ambulance to the receiving hospital. Surgeons worked on him for several hours and later he was removed to the Providence Hospital, where it is stated today that he is resting easily and has regained consciousness. There is no hope for his recovery.

SWEETS DIAMONDS AND GOLD AMONG GARBAGE

Aged Mrs. Eda Brooks, residing at 569 Eighth street, when sweeping the room of her daughter, Ida, yesterday morning swept a charcoal bag into the rear yard and with the other debris deposited it in a rubbish box. Miss Ida Brooks an hour later mislaid four diamonds and $250 in gold which she had tied up in a charcoal bag late Saturday night. A search of the apartment followed the discovery that the gems and gold were missing. Mrs. Brooks became prostrated over the loss, which she attributed to a thief.

A roomer in the house notified the police headquarters and Policeman Feeley was sent to the Brooks house to investigate. He ransacked the house and then found the charcoal bag with gold and gems neatly hidden under a lot of debris. Then there was joy in the Brooks home.

ALLEGES HIS WIFE
FLEES WITH ANOTHER

Asserting that his wife has eloped with one Ben Davis and has taken up her residence in this city, Harry B. Price, who lives at Vista Grande Park, in San Mateo county, has asked the police to aid in locating the woman.

According to the story of the deserted husband, Mrs. Price left his home September 6, taking with her their three-year-old daughter. Price traced the woman to this city and finally found her trunk at the office of the Oakland Transfer Company at Broadway and Twentieth street.

FIRE DAMAGES MANY HOMES

Several Residences Suffer When Chinese Laundry and Contents are Burned.

By the fire which occurred late Saturday night in Yee Wick's Chinese laundry at 1515 Seventh street, loss and damage to the extent of $6000 to $8000 was occasioned. The laundry was destroyed, but how much loss the Chinese and patrons sustained can only be guessed at.

At 1509 1/2 Seventh street a three-story house owned and occupied by A. Canapa was considerably damaged by fire and water, as was a building at 1509 Seventh street, which is occupied by Miyaur & Co. as a shoe store. A house occupied by Mrs. Ella O'Brien, at 1515 Seventh street, was also badly damaged by fire, and the rooming house of Mrs. J. Harrison at 1517 Seventh street, caught fire and was drenched with water. The last two dwellings are owned by Joseph Coughlin, who was partly protected by insurance.

The fire is believed to have originated from a defective flue in the Chinese laundry.

MONTEREY

The City of Opportunity

Take a map of California—study it—note Monterey's geographical location—see what a short distance it is from Monterey to the San Joaquin, Santa Clara and Salinas Valleys, where millions of dollars' worth of crops are raised each year. Monterey is the natural shipping point for all these products, and for two good logical reasons:

- (1) Because the distance is short, and the products can be quickly transported to the coast at a minimum cost.
- (2) Because Monterey is the only town on the Bay of Monterey that has deep water, where the ships of the world can dock.

Already railroads are planning to have great terminals at Monterey, where wharves are to be built.

Already factories are planning to erect plants where every facility is assured, as rail and water are to meet here.

Monterey is going to be the largest city between San Francisco and Los Angeles.

All these improvements mean increased population; and more people mean more homes. The logical place for these homes is

Del Monte Heights

The Town of Residences

Del Monte Heights has the climate, the location and the attractions which make it the most favored place for residences.

It's only ten minutes' walk from the famous Hotel del Monte. The attractions that made Hotel del Monte are at the very door of every home at Del Monte Heights.

Street work now being done; parks being planned; shade trees to be planted along sidewalks; sewer and water pipes to be laid. Lake Del Rey is soon to be made a great pleasure place.

Now's the time to buy at Del Monte Heights, while prices are the very lowest. Lots from $100 to $300 on easy terms. Invest now—soon double your money. Get our booklet that tells more.
